I was on my phone and thought I would have a look. I had no idea this game would be so much fun. The Grim and I is an interactive fiction game that lets you play as a superhero character. You play as "The Grim" and you have to decide what to do with your life. This game was released back in the Halloween of 2015 but it was created by a company called The Fiction Factory. This company was started by a chap called Thom Baylay, he has a few interactive fiction games that he has made over the years and I think this is the first one of his he has given away for free. You start off by choosing what you want to be, can you be a superhero like the Iron Man, Spiderman, Superman, a pirate or a mummy. There are also two different sets of choices to make the game fun. There is the good choice and the bad choice. You will have to choose which direction you want to head in and what type of person you want to be. The game progresses as you continue making decisions, you make a choice and watch the consequences unfold in front of you. In the midst of all this you can play as the Grim and you decide what to do with his life. With so many choices, if you like what you do you can choose to keep it and if you don't like it then you can

How to play Endless Furry Asteroids:

The game begins with the protagonist standing on an endless plane, a circle with squares on the background and a gray line surrounding it. Based on the gravity, falling happens.

There are 800+ levels in the game. To complete the level, you have to get to the end of the path.

Move with the Right (up) - Left (down) Arrows and use to shoot the objects.

Shoot the solid and the small. Shoot objects with speed decreases gradually.

Shoot objects that are moving slowly for a longer time.

Shoot objects that are moving fast first to quickly refresh the screen.

Press the Space Bar to jump over the obstacles.

The next level is like the one above, faster falling gravity.

Risks and challenges faced by the start-up:

We had to innovate new technology before we could come up with a high-end game engine.

People behind this game:

farm bill stalled on a key vote Illinois is one of 12 states that lose federal funding under a $5 billion agricultural program slated for termination, but the Illinois Senate could block the move at any time. The Senate's 52-47 votes Tuesday on the 2012 farm bill were inconclusive, blocking it from reauthorization and forcing lawmakers to start over on time. The U.S. House passed the bill Dec. 12. The loss of funding for the "direct and counter-cyclical program," or DCC program, means 11 states and the District of Columbia would lose funding. The state's primary product is corn, soybeans, wheat, cotton and beef. Senate President John Cullerton supported the bill. "The DCC program has been successful in helping to manage the nation's farm sector and help farmers manage production when markets are up or down," he said. The bill cuts congressional funding for the DCC program by $5 billion over 10 years. A House-passed bill included $3.2 billion in cuts, and Cullerton said he would negotiate with Senate leaders to find a compromise. The state's top Republican, Republican Senate leader Christine Radogno, opposed the bill. She said it's disappointing that Democrats didn't agree to cuts. This marks the first time this farm bill has not received approval from both houses of Congress, but the Senate has the final vote.Q: What is the difference between two Socks5 proxies on an Ubuntu 16.04 server I am currently running a Ubuntu 16.04 server, which has two default proxies configured. Both are set to use 51080. Using netcat, I can connect to proxy1: nc example.com 51080 But I cannot connect to proxy2: nc example.com 51080 If I use the Proxy 1 IP address as the upstream proxy: nc -x example.com 51080 I can connect. Is there a way to make sure I am connected to the correct proxy? Or do they require different methods of reaching to the destination server? A: By default, Socks5 proxies are not pipelining requests. This means that clients connect back to your server and your server

Revealed! by Alex Erza could potentially be the newest cover star for the upcoming issue of Japanese teen manga magazine, Monthly Comic Gene. It has been revealed the cover of the May 2015 issue. The magazine did a page spread of the cover so there's a good chance you can get a preview of what the cover will look like. The cover has Erza sporting Sailor Moon's standard Sailor Moon attire; however, her tail has begun to flash, revealing its true form. The anime will conclude this coming July, making today a good day to celebrate Erza's new costume! Page two of the spread reveals that the animation studio for Sankarea 2, DARNetwork, is behind the project and that the animation doesn't use Flash but is instead done using Shinkenhei software. Unsurprisingly, the next episode of Sankarea 2 announced the title as "finale". Till now, we didn't know anything about the CGI thingy for the next drama CD. But guess what? Ufotable had an Sankarea cast member hand over a first look for a CGI commercial with not only Itou Shinjirou as Ryu Kagura, but also Kitauji Tesuto as the male voice. The commercial is going to be included in the theatrical release of the drama CD release on June 4th. Finally, when was the last time we would see Chizuru Kamijou for a while? This makes sense: The final arc of Sankarea will be released in the same week the KochiCon2015 event takes place! Wednesday, June 10, 2015 Video: NAGURAGURU Card Hunter Live!!!! As we found out from the images, the Naguraguru Card Hunter Online: School Days event will have special flashcards made by Nagoya University's Artificial Intelligence research laboratory. It is currently unknown if the cards are like the ones in the world of video games and have coding that can be seen on screen, making the characters "printable", or if it is more like a normal card deck. Of course, with this game, you can expect anything! Depending on your logic deck, you'll be able to solve your opponent's "shadow" card too. It's not really clear what a "printable" card would
